National Sport Academy and the Calgary Board of Education News

Since 1995, the National Sport Academy (NSA) has been offering high-performance student athletes with the opportunity to successfully pursue their passion for sports and learning at the same time. NSA students benefit from the same high-quality learning opportunities available to other Calgary Board of Education (CBE) students, while also enjoying the greater flexibility required for student athletes to complete their education.

This innovative and highly personalized learning experience is possible because of the strong partnership between the NSA and CBE. As partners, both organizations recognize the need for Calgary students to be able to choose the learning opportunity that is right for them. NSA students have more opportunities than ever before to excel in their chosen sport and also reach their full potential as learners in an integrated school setting. This is an opportunity unique to any other program offered in the Calgary community and one that will offer strong and sustainable programming in designated Calgary Board of Education schools for many years to come.

Recent program changes include additional sports being added at some schools, greater flexibility in students' off-site activities and new ways to utilize technology personally designed by CBE teachers to ensure a personalized experience for students.

As of September 2011 NSA is offering programs at the three CBE schools listed below. Interested families are invited to meet both CBE and NSA staff to learn more about what this exciting program has to offer through NSA Information Meetings and "A Day in the Life" sessions. Below you will find all the details.
